* . . . . . . . to come out of the American Wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art . . . .

A GREAT new development in decorative art is under way, inspired by the American Wing. It is reviving the early American period, and modernizing it into the true American style.

We take pride, therefore, in announcing the first design in solid silver, with the grace of America's most graceful period. The Minuet.

All the quiet grace of early American has truly been wrought in modern silver in this lovely pattern. This new and true American style is dominating I today. Therefore we believe Minuet the most important design, we are showing. Everyone interested in the progress of silverware is invited to see it
